

LICENSE AGREEMENT FOR USE OF THE FEARNLEY PROCTER NS-2™ LOGO AND/OR TRADEMARK

ADDENDUM 9

Additional Restrictions for use of the Logo and Trademark in communications and press releases.

This Addendum, along with other addenda, is an integral part of the attached license agreement and should not be treated otherwise. Any restrictions of use for the LOGO and the TRADEMARK should be considered in addition to, and not in replacement of, any restrictions in the main agreement. Guidance notes that are given are to assist the licensee in complying with the license. The licensee should note that the licensor reserves the right to reject any use of the Logo or the Trademark for any reason.

Written Communications

In general written or typed communications, letters etc., the trademark may be used without the logo. When referring to the approval system or an approval for an APPROVED, please always use 'Fearnley Procter NS-2™' in full. You should also refer to the result and the process as 'Fearnley Procter NS-2™ Approved' and 'Fearnley Procter NS-2™ Approval' respectively and not 'certified', 'certificated' or anything else. The details of usage from the reference must also be included either as a footnote or within the body copy and no other uses should be associated with the approval system.

If the logo is used then it should be treated as defined in the license agreement.

Press Releases and Communications

When utilising press releases for external use or for the use of independent publishers and press it remains the licensee's responsibility that the use of the logo and trademark complies with this license agreement and its addenda.

A press release must include the logo and the trade mark.

The trademark may only be used as part of the body copy and the detail of the reference for the APPROVED mentioned must also appear in the body copy within close proximity of the Trademark.

If the logo is used, then the reference must be placed either immediately below it or immediately to its right hand side, parentheses may be used.

The use of asterisks to associate the reference with either the Logo or the Trademark is not permitted in this form of promotion.

At the top of any press release provided to independent publishers or press the following statement must be included:

Notice to publisher: [Name of Licensee] has a license agreement with Fearnley Procter Group Ltd for the use of the trademark 'Fearnley Procter NS-2™' and its associated Logo. Permission has been given by Fearnley Procter Group Ltd for the trademark and the logo to be used as part of this press statement/release on the understanding that the trademark should be reproduced in full as 'Fearnley Procter NS-2™' and should not be shortened or altered in anyway. In addition that the approved use for [THE APPROVED] which is [USES as in THE REFERENCE] is included in the final published item and no other uses or claims are associated with the Fearnley Procter NS-2™ approval system.
